Debate Process:

Each team will be assigned to debate either in the proposition, or the opposition alternatingly between rounds. This will be allocated before rounds begin. With the theme in mind being IPEF, motions will be released and each team will get 20 minutes of prep time to compile two speeches wherein they will lay down their argumentation and logic.

Speaker Roles:

- Speaker One (Proposition I) - The first speaker will be from the constructive speaker from team proposition, who will lay out the line of argumentation and close his speech with conviction.
- Speaker Two (Opposition I) - The second speaker will be the constructive speaker from team opposition who will lay out his line of argumentation, as well as deconstruct and rebut the points laid out by the proposition speaker.
- Speaker Three (Proposition II) - The third speaker – the second speaker from team proposition – will lay out a deconstructive argumentation on the contentions put together by the opposition speaker in the form of rebuttals. He will also sum up the line of argumentation taken up by the proposition, and conclude.
- Speaker Four (Opposition II) - The fourth, and last, speaker will be the second member of the opposition, who will also rebut the points laid down by the proposition speakers before him, and deconstruct their contentions by doing a side-by-side analysis of the opposition's stance. He will then conclude the speech in a 'biased adjudication'.
  - Each speech will be 5 minutes long, wherein the first and last minute will be protected – No points of information can be raised at this time.
  - In the three minutes between the protected minutes, the opposing teams can raise points of information to the speaker in the form of questions pertaining to their line of argumentation.
  - Each member of the teams must speak for the designated 5 minutes or face a loss of points.

- Each member of the teams must take up at least one point of information, and ask at least one point of information per speaker to their opposing team.
- Cumulative team scores will dictate the power rankings and will decide which teams move ahead in the competition.

Rubric:

I. Matter

This will be the line of argumentation created and its inherent logic. Matter will also include the use of the 'ARE' model where A stands for assertions, R stands for reasoning, and E stands for example. Each speaker will be marked individually and the scores will be added to arrive at a team score.

II. Manner

The manner of speaking, presentation of the line of argumentation, and respectful and level-headed approach towards the debate will comprise the manner rubric.

III. Method

The method of speaking will include the organization of the speech, ability to take up points of information without derailing their argument, and maintaining a clear connection between the two speeches.

- Cumulative team scores will dictate the power rankings and will decide which teams move ahead in the competition.

*Points of Information*:*

A point of information (POI) is when a member of the team opposing that of the current speaker gets to briefly interrupt the current speaker, offering a POI in the form of a question or a statement. This may be as a correction, asking for clarity, or just a plain question. A POI may not be raised to a member of one's own team. They allow speakers to demonstrate greater wit and presence of thought than is generally possible in a speech.

Etiquette:

1. The opposing team member may raise their hand and offer the point;

- Examples of valid offers:

- "On a point of information."
- "May I have this point, sir/miss"
- "On that point, sir/miss"
- "POI, sir/ma'am?"
- "Point, sir/ma'am"

2. The speaker then can either accept or decline the point, or else offers to accept it at the end of the sentence. The speaker is required to accept in a short statement such as "Taken", "Yes sir/ma'am", and so on. If the speaker wishes, they have the right to decline by saying "No, thank you", "Not taken", and so on;

3. If accepted, the debater that offered the point may then briefly interject a point, question or statement. Generally, this must be done in fifteen seconds or less, and the speaker may cut the opposing offer off at any point;

4. The speaker must then immediately answer the point of information;
